

How to get to ACP:

For GPS systems, address to ACP is: @41.892486,-1.711442

Google map with routes from Barcelona, Madrid and Biarritz: <http://bit.ly/dvZDzi>

- From BARCELONA

There are 400km from Barcelona to Tarazona, about four hours by car. Take highway AP-2 to Zaragoza for 310Km. When approaching Zaragoza, keep going towards Madrid, since the blue signs that say “LOGROÑO AP-68”, which you have to take, appear a little later. Once you take this exit indicating Logroño AP-68, please, follow the directions below (1 to 4):

- From MADRID.

There are 300km from Madrid to Tarazona, about three hours by car. Only half of the way is on highway, the rest is a very well paved road but with only one lane in each direction. Take highway A-2 (or R-2 from the North of Madrid and the Airport) to Zaragoza for 150Km, till Medinaceli. Take N-111 direction “Soria” for 40Km, almost till Almazán (you do not have to get into the town). Take C-101 for 62Km, direction “Ólvega” and “Ágreda”. The road ends by joining a highway, that you have to take in direction to Tarazona. The highway will finish soon, and you should keep on the resulting road, N-122 direction “Tarazona”. When entering the town, follow signs to Zaragoza for over 2Km. Continue from directions below (notes 3 and 4)

- From ZARAGOZA.

There are direct flights to Zaragoza from Frankfurt, London, Milan, Paris, Rome, Madrid or Barcelona. There are 92km from Zaragoza to Tarazona, about an hour by car. From the airport, you have to follow the signs to Zaragoza through a road where there are many plant nurseries and which ends at a bigger road (you will see a "Porcelanosa" store then). Take a left there, joining the road in direction to Logroño. Right now you are in the road, not the highway, so you should follow blue panels than indicate LOGROÑO AP-68. After getting in the highway, please, keep reading from note 2.-

- (1) At about 4km into the highway there is a fork, both options apparently leading to Logroño. Take the left –toll highway AP-68, direction LOGROÑO.

Do NOT take exit 19, GALLUR, which comes after about 40Kms. It is indicated as suitable to go to Tarazona, too, but that road is currently under construction, so you are better off taking exit 18 in Tudela)

- (2) After about 70Km on highway AP-68 you have to get out at Exit 18, TUDELA. Take a left after the exit from the highway to get on road N-121 to Tarazona.

Keep going for 22Km on road N-121 (you will have to drive through towns: Cascante, Tulebras, Monteagudo and Novallas).

Entering Tarazona: You have to keep following the signs to "Zaragoza" We are in an industrial area ("polígono industrial"), outside Tarazona, on the road to Zaragoza, so you have to cross the whole town:

When entering Tarazona, go straight ahead on both roundabouts, turn right by the cathedral, then left into N-122 towards Zaragoza, for over 1km.

- (3) Keep going pass the "Guardia Civil" quarter. After the next turn on the road you will pass by a CEPSA gas station, a hotel and a Renault dealership. In about 400m, there will be a sign to turn left to "Polígono Industrial". Take it.
- (4) Get into the industrial area: straight at the first roundabout till the end of the street. Take a left, leaving the car wash to your right, pass the ITV car testing station (it's orange). ACP is the first building to the right after the road turns (the one with a black cube at the front façade). A big white company called Faurecia is in front of us. The door is on the white brick building.

Tarazona:

